Special Cable to The Tribune
ANTWERP, Aug. 14.—Dan Ahearn, of the Illinois A. C., world's champion in the hop, step and jump, will compete for America at the stadium here, as was announced to-day by the American Olympic Committee. Acting upon the advice of his fellow athletes, the famous jumper decided to apologize to the committee, which yesterday dismissed him from the team for insubordination.

The committee reconsidered, and Ahearn was reinstated, much to the satisfaction of the other members of the team, which took up the fight in behalf of the Illinois man.

Army and navy authorities are co-operating with the committee to improve the meals and make the quarters comfortable, with the result that the tension is broken and the morale of the team is decidedly improved, following a compromise wherein both the athletes and the committee admitted mistakes had been made.

Everything is now in readiness for the greatest track meet in the annals of sport. The seventh Olympiad will be the greatest because the standard of competition has improved tremendously since the last international classic, especially throughout Europe, and this despite the hardships of war.

King and Queen Present

Athletes to the number of 1,800 from twenty-seven countries paraded before King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium this afternoon in the formal opening of the stadium. Though the seventh Olympiad will be held in an arena smaller than the Polo Grounds, not more than half of the seats were filled when the ceremonies began.

To Americans acquainted with the Yale bowl and Harvard stadium, the Antwerp arena seems pathetically tiny, but what is lacking in size is made up in beauty. Flags, fanfars, bugles and cannon, in fact all the trappings, which a few years back were associated with warfare before it became a matter of mud, gas and machinery, were employed in to-day's royal opening, and the soldier King, the idol of his people, enjoyed his first experience of this kind. At his right sat Queen Elizabeth, and to his left was Cardinal Mercier, while around him were many notable soldiers and statesmen.

It was the best League of Nations meeting since the war, and though tomorrow the athletes will be fighting desperately for the honor of their country, they will part friends.

The huge American squad, with Pat McDonald carrying the Stars and Stripes at their head, created a fine impression, but most of the cheers were won by the French and Swedes, the former because they are bound by alliance with the Belgians, and the latter because their women competitors are such a wonderful type of athlete.

Only One New Zealander

One New Zealander represented his country, but Egypt had nearly a score. Portugal had four fencers and Monaco at least a dozen gymnasts. The Czechs had a large squad, but there were no representatives of Jugoslavia. The Estonian banner fluttered, but no Poles marched before the King, and while Luxembourg had a dozen competitors, to Germans saluted him in city. The Austrians, Russians and Turks must await the Olympiad of 1924.

As the King watched the athletes troop past he must have thought of the contrast to twenty years ago, when the Germans had begun the retreat across the Somme, and some of the men below him were tasting the first fruits of the great victory. The American contingent, in fine fettle, and their enthusiasm and speed in decorating the city.

Practically all of the Americans are in perfect condition, although a few are suffering from colds due to the change of climate. Howard Cann of the New York A. C. is one of the victims, but he expects to be ready when his event is run.

The Navy crew is training in the canal, and rowing in grand style. I understand the eight bettered the time which it made at Worcester. All the time when in fine fettle, and they seem due to win the Olympic title handsly.

Americans in Good Shape

The swimmers, notably Norman Ross, are in fine condition, while the wrestlers and boxers are at top form. The coaches declare the Americans are in better shape than any previous team sent abroad, Lawson Robertson and Matt Halpin being especially enthusiastic.

All the teams are now in Antwerp, which is the most cosmopolitan city in the world to-day. Japanese, Czechs, Swedes, Moroccans, Egyptians, Britons, French, Americans, and a host of others and yellow races being represented.

The Scandinavians and Swedes, especially the latter, were accompanied by large delegations of fans, but the American cheering section will be second only to Belgium, for hundreds of army and navy men will swell the crowd of civilians going to the stadium.

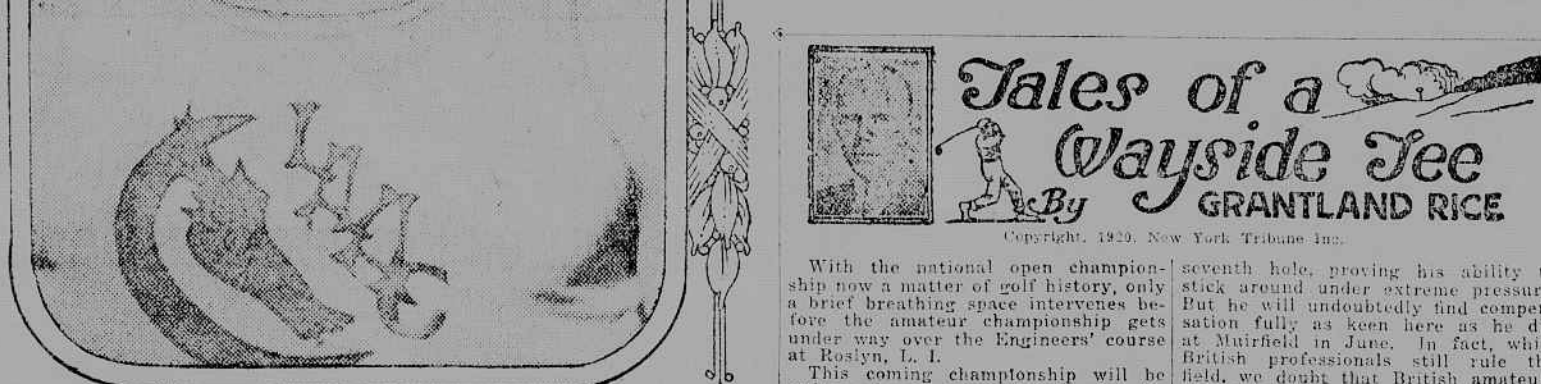

The Americans drew well for places in the sprint events. Murchison will meet with little opposition in his heat. Paddock will meet a Frenchman, a Spaniard, a Japanese and an Englishman in the 100-meter dash.

It was Frenchman, the Canadian, J. K. Norton, of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, and Charles D. Dags, of Los Angeles, should win their heats, but Frank Loomis, of Chicago, expects a hard struggle with Anoni, the French champion.

It was announced to-day that Montague, the famous English distance runner, would not compete because of a weak heart.

With the national open championship now a matter of golf history, only a brief breathing space intervenes before the amateur championship gets under way over the Engineers' course at Roslyn, L. I.

This coming championship will be written down among the chances for two reasons: It will be the first played under the new golf code and it will have the greatest entry list that ever fought for the title. Cyril J. Tolley, British amateur champion, Davidson Herron, American amateur champion; R. H. Wethered, captain of the Oxford team; Robert A. Gardner, twice amateur champion; Evans, Quinn and Travers, past open and amateur champions; Bobby Jones and so on through the most formidable set of slayers and back spin immortals that ever took a lunge at a brassie shot or sank a 10-foot putt.

The trial heats and possibly the finals of the 100 and 200-meter Olympic races are scheduled to take place to-day at Antwerp. In no other events are Americans' chances of victory so good as in these two contests.

Nieuport Again Wins Feature Of Bay Regatta

Defeats Cantigny in 7.3 Mile Race by 17 Seconds; Ethel Captures Handicap

Due to the fact that a nasty rain squall swept over Gravesend Bay just prior to the setting of the course signals, the smallest fleet of the year raced in the annual regatta of the Gravesend Bay Yacht Club yesterday. Only nine yachts came to the starting line, and they were sent away by the regatta committee during the heaviest part of the squall over the usual lower bay inside course.

Fortunately, the rain did not last long. Unfortunately, it killed the breeze, and it cannot be said that the yachts had a very spirited regatta. The most interesting fight was in the new Victory class. Again, the winner was Nieuport, the property of young Levan Brown. Nieuport defeated Dr. C. L. Atkinson's Cantigny by 17 seconds over a 7.3 mile course made up of two reaches and a stiff beat home.

Although O. Hansen's Ethel was the first yacht to finish in the second division of the handicap class, the winner, on corrected time, was R. Carey's Mavourneen. The smaller boat gained her advantage in the channel and obtaining the advantage of a strong ebb tide. Although she was passed on the second round, she more than saved her time on the later craft.

The largest fleet of the day raced in the third division of the handicap class. On both actual and corrected time the winner was Commodore Rottamner's Bug II. The wind was light and the south throughout. Never was it a really good sailing breeze. As usual the start and finish was off the Atlantic Yacht Club at Sea Gate. The regatta committee, headed by Fort Hamilton and home. It was sailed twice by all the yachts but the small handicap boats.

Hjertberg Cables For Post as Yale Athletic Coach

ANTWERP, Aug. 14.—Coach Ernie Hjertberg of the Swedish team, which is America's most feared rival in the Olympic games, told The Associated Press to-day that he had heard the position of athletic coach at Yale would soon be open. He said he had cabled the New Haven institution, offering to return to America to accept the position should an opening exist and if a satisfactory contract could be arranged.

Hjertberg, who also trained the Swedish Olympic team in 1912, was famous as a distance runner in the United States fifteen years ago.

Due to the fact that a nasty rain squall swept over Gravesend Bay just prior to the setting of the course signals, the smallest fleet of the year raced in the annual regatta of the Gravesend Bay Yacht Club yesterday. Only nine yachts came to the starting line, and they were sent away by the regatta committee during the heaviest part of the squall over the usual lower bay inside course.

Fortunately, the rain did not last long. Unfortunately, it killed the breeze, and it cannot be said that the yachts had a very spirited regatta. Atkinson's Cantigny by 17 seconds over a 7.3 mile course made up of two reaches and a stiff beat home.

Although O. Hansen's Ethel was the first yacht to finish in the second division of the handicap class, the winner, on corrected time, was R. Carey's Mavourneen. The smaller boat gained her advantage in the channel and obtaining the advantage of a strong ebb tide. Although she was passed on the second round, she more than saved her time on the later craft.

The largest fleet of the day raced in the third division of the handicap class. On both actual and corrected time the winner was Commodore Rottamner's Bug II. The wind was light and the south throughout. Never was it a really good sailing breeze. As usual the start and finish was off the Atlantic Yacht Club at Sea Gate. The regatta committee, headed by Fort Hamilton and home. It was sailed twice by all the yachts but the small handicap boats.
